At Training in Early Abortion for Comprehensive Healthcare (TEACH), we train clinicians in reproductive health, enable them to provide abortion care, and cultivate the next generation of reproductive health champions to ensure everyone has access to comprehensive healthcare.

Your generosity has supported our achievements and we are grateful to be part of this resilient, compassionate and generous community.

Welcome Flor!

In May we hired our inaugural Executive Director to lead the organization to greater impact and sustainability!

2017-2018 Clinical Training Successes

We know the more procedures residents do, the more likely they will go on to provide abortions.

- 63 residents trained in prenatal care, pregnancy options counseling, first-trimester aspiration and medication abortions and contraceptive choices
- 2,500 abortions provided by our residents at local clinics
- 45 2nd year residents trained in reproductive healthcare
- 5 residents trained in abortion care at off-site clinics in rural CA or Dallas, Texas
- 18 Advanced CREATE residents trained and mentored in abortion care, leadership and advocacy

Your gift to TEACH funds our Leadership Fellow!

“At the end of residency, I realized that I would need to invest time in cultivating my teaching and advocacy skills in order to be a more effective reproductive justice advocate. The TEACH fellowship did exactly that. Because of the TEACH fellowship, I now train family medicine residents in first trimester abortions, and regularly advocate and lobby for reproductive rights.”

Emily, 2018 Leadership Fellow

Making abortion curriculum and research available to everyone

TEACH’s Early Abortion Workbook is the most trusted source for training Family Medicine residents.

Building partnerships to defend access to abortion
With Trump in the White House and Kavanaugh on the Supreme Court, abortion restrictions and even outright criminalization could become a reality in 20 states. In California, we are positioned to play a pivotal role in abortion access. But we know we can’t do it alone. At its heart, TEACH is a collaborative effort that works with a community of reproductive health providers and advocates to train and mobilize the next generation of reproductive health champions.

Advocacy to advance reproductive rights
We know that defending reproductive rights is a team effort so we work with two regional coalitions and partner with Physicians for Reproductive Rights (PRH).

• We lobbied for a bill to guarantee medication abortion at California public universities, which passed the house and senate only to be vetoed by the governor, as part of our joint PRH Lobby Day.
• We took actions to resist Trump’s domestic gag rule that, if implemented, would force doctors to deny abortion services and information to their patients.
• We spoke out to the Attorney General against the proposed merger of a Catholic hospital group which would deny women access to comprehensive reproductive healthcare.

Advocacy within the American Academy of Family Physicians
We work from within to normalize abortion.

• TEACH’s resolution to remove the restrictive categorization on abortion medication, removing a significant barrier to abortion care, was adopted into official policy.

Reproductive Justice
Because physicians should contribute to the reproductive justice movement as partners to advocates and activists, from now on, our advanced trainees get a reproductive justice and intersectionality 101 training from our partners at If/When/How.

We’re stronger together, building a community that normalizes abortion
Our storytelling event brought together 200 people to share personal stories of reproductive health decisions that challenge abortion stigma and build community.

In the current political climate, I often reflect back on my TEACH training. I feel incredibly honored, and humbled to partner with women; to support, care for, or merely witness their decision. It is for these women that I will continue to provide this care and advocate for women’s reproductive rights.”

A special thank you to the following Foundations for their support of TEACH in 2018:

Thank you for supporting TEACH!

Abortion training is hard to come by. Of the 469 Family Medicine residencies, only 29 provide routine abortion training. TEACH works with four Northern California Family Medicine residency programs and partners with two Planned Parent-hoods to ensure residents get the training they need.

We owe a debt of gratitude to our generous supporters, faculty and advisory board for supporting TEACH. Our community of donors, reproductive health providers and advocates help us cultivate tomorrow’s reproductive health champions.
